With F.M.L.

All the news is not bad. In fact, the view ahead is firm.

Texas is well below the national average of about 6 percent unemployment. Last time we heard it was about 2.5 per cent or thereabout.

Alcoa is fulltilt. Local plants in Cameron are running about normal, considering seasonal adjustments. Cattlemen are organizing in the area for a go at getting price relief by depressing beef imports. Or some such.

Housing construction is slow everywhere, and yet Rockdale and much of this area already are trying to anticipate what will happen in about two years when 600 construction employees hit the place for 2 1/2 years to build an additional Alcoa power system. Rockdale alone recognizes it can't and won't go it alone in dealing with such an influx.

The bonds are already being readied for the $45 millions worth of pollution abatement equipment.

New or remodeled stores continue to open in Cameron and are doing business on a wider, area basis.

Plans for the West Cameron rejuvenation and other plans for North and Northeast residential Cameron are in the mill.

One problem is the "soft" housing market.

115-115-115

We would say a spirit of aggressive development throughout the Milam spectrum is taking hold in neighboring counties. A meeting of business and community leaders at the recent announcement of Alcoa's planned expansion is an example. Rockdale, Cameron, Taylor among others were represented.

It is not because the groundwork for cohesiveness has not been laid. This community has done as much toward basic strengthening and expansion of all services, except for school plant facilities, as any of similar size.

The pressure to do like Cameron does is great on neighboring towns because "it is working" here. Dozens of visitors every week see what a really new downtown, from plumbing to utility poles means, among many other projects.

Just to stir things a bit, I'd like to suggest the start of thinking, nothing more, on a project which is not as beyond reality as it will first appear.

And that is to study costs of putting plastic or glass enclosures along mall area sidewalks for summer air conditioning. Each would be adding roughly 500 square feet to be cooled in the hot season, many shops far less. And it would provide the ultimate in mall shopping convenience in a day when such things are no longer farfetched.

In time of economic plateauing, that may sound absurd. But this country's economy has a way of turning upward and this town has a way of finding ways to do things.

Like a 160 percent United Fund drive for North Milam, a 7,000 per cent gain in five years for Folk Fete, a six-year, half-million dollar community improvements program, to name a few.

Cool the sidewalks? Just a few years ago, few would have believed anything would replace the buggy-high curbs here. Until we moved in a new downtown.

Sheriff Asks Commissioners For More Help

Sheriff Carl Black told Milam County Commissioners Monday morning that he will need more help in running the new county jail when it is occupied, with at least three more persons to be hired.

Black told commissioners the new wage and hour laws mean more personnel as a work week will have to be no more than 40 hours. And he told commissioners his department can't get a fingerprint man down here on weekends unless it is an emergency.

J. T. Morgan, constable of Pct. 3, appeared before the commissioners court and said he was not getting enough salary to cover the expenses connected with his job. Judge O. B. Harden told Morgan to submit his request in writing, that several other requests for adjustments have been made.

The old county poor farm was leased to Donnie Tucker, whose bid of $450.01 was the highest of three submitted.

Commissioners took under advisement a proposal made by Paul Scott, of the Texas State Library, to secure permission to microfilm certain county records for use by historical and genealogical researchers. He said there would be no cost to the county--it was to make public records easily available to the public.

Suffers Gunshot Wound

A local man was treated and released at a Temple hospital after he was shot in the hand about 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

Alex Brown, 40, of 908 N. Vine, told police he was cleaning his gun, an Army surplus 8mm rifle when it discharged, wounding him in the hand. He was taken to the hospital by private auto.

Illegal Signs Cited

E. A. Bigbee, city code inspector, reminds all residents that it is illegal to put up signs on city property including utility poles.

Bigbee said "garage sale" signs are the most common offense, and that these signs are seldom taken down, thus adding to the city's litter problem.

Cattle Meeting Set

A meeting to discuss the present cattle marketing situation will be held Wednesday, November 20, instead of November 13 as told in a weekend Herald story. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. at the Yoe High School vocational agriculture department in Cameron.

250 Cattlemen Hear ICA Speaker

About 250 Milam cattlemen Monday night heard T. A. Cunningham, founder of the Independent Cattlemen's Association, urge the need for cattlemen to join the organization and "fight" for better prices.

About 100 signed "blueback" membership petitions laid out on tables at Yoe Gymnasium where the group heard the Goliad rancher-breeder, who made an unscheduled appearance.

Pete Williams, of Yoakum, was at the mike when Cunningham and his wife entered the gym. A similar meeting had been held in Falls County last week and about 60 counties in the past 60 days, Cunningham later told The Herald.

Cunningham's appeal was simple: Join us, (the Independent Cattlemen's Association) to compel the government to restore 1964 beef import quotas. He reasons prices would improve with domestic demand.

Cunningham read from a briefcase of statistics, three different sets, he said, which showed on the average that beef imports were 2.6 billion pounds in the first six months of 1974, compared to 1.34 or 1.355 billion pounds for a full year either 1972 or 1973. These were only a few statistics of those he read.

He said Secretary of Agriculture Butz gives different reasons for the import increase, based on figures from USDA, ports of entry and one other source, none of which quite agreed.

At least 30 Milam Countians agreed with Cunningham. They became bearers of the "blueback" membership forms, signed by about 100 there Monday night. Four are temporary officers:

Chairman, Charles Ellison; vice-chairman, Gwyn Fleming; Cameron; secretary, Pete York, Rockdale; and treasurer, Pud Owens, Rockdale.

Directors are Pete Melcer, Cameron; Joe Willingham, Milano and V. W. Hawk, Cameron.

Checks were available at the meeting for membership. Cunningham was quick to point out he was bonded for $300,000 and that money donated is deposited in county banks, controlled by the local officers.

Organizers said regular meetings will follow to elect permanent officers and begin efforts to "lobby" for beef import reductions.

Asked what percentage the imports were of total head slaughtered, Cunningham said it was "sizeable," but didn't say what that percentage was.

"These prices are costing cattlemen more money than we can make back in five years," Cunningham said. (About 38¢ a pound)

He said calves are selling higher in Mexico than in Texas and "people are trying to get our calves over there."

He said the ICA organizational effort is underway in most Texas cattle counties and in seven states. Beef prices across the counter are anywhere from $1.50 to $2.00 a pound, according to the spokesmen.

Cunningham suggested "the first time we'll work through government procedures", the second time "we'll do it our way." He didn't elaborate, but implied a boycott or similar action.

"I figure it this way: If country boys go broke, they all go broke," Cunningham said over a public address system which made it difficult to understand speakers.

He said ICA would ask import beef boycotts by the Armed Forces and school cafeterias by writing to people in charge. He said later the organization drive is 60 days old and he has appeared at about 60 meetings. And Cunningham estimated about 100 counties have organized with about 100,000 members.

Falls County chairman Paul Schlottman was at the Cameron meeting and said about 900 had joined the Falls ICA, averaging about $1 per person in dues.

A standup speaker and native of Alabama, Cunningham drew applause later in the extemporaneous speech with a few anecdotes. The statistics he quoted painted a gray picture and built a case for the ICA approach to limiting beef imports. State Rep. Dan Kubiak briefly talked with Cunningham, but did not speak.

He spoke about 30 minutes.

Shell Leasing Land For Lignite

By Lloyd Albertson

Milam County landowners, who have long been familiar with oil and gas leases, soon will be able to lease another mineral--coal or lignite.

Shell Oil Company of Houston recently has started a campaign to acquire several thousand acres of lignite leases in the county in order to check on the feasibility of mining operations in the future.

The company has plans to lease from 10,000 to 15,000 acres or more according to Shell's senior landman, A. J. Rubbo, who is in charge of the program.

Tom Shores, a landman from Shell's office in Houston, has been working in Milam County for several weeks contacting farmers, ranchers, and other landowners and has leased a number of tracts of land from them.

At present the lignite leasing activity is in an area about 15 miles long extending from south of Rockdale to south of Cameron. Recently some acreage was reported leased in the Griffin Chapel area northwest of Milano.

It is possible that other sections of the county may be included in the lease play if surveys and geology indicate that there are good lignite deposits there.

The price Shell is paying for its lignite leases reportedly compares very favorably with that paid for an excellent oil and gas lease. It also is said to be about twice as much as the best price that some companies engaged in leasing for coal are paying in some northern States.

The leases are made for a term of 20 years. Rubbo explained that Shell probably would be unable to bring in any mining equipment, such as a dragline, in less than six or eight years, so a short term lease--five years, for instance--would be useless, since it would expire before operations could get under way.

After sufficient acreage has been put under lease, plans call for Shell crews to come in and do some core drilling. This is to determine the location and depth and thickness of the lignite veins or beds.

This information is necessary before the actual mining operation can begin.

Mining the lignite, which as has been said will be several years away, will be by strip mining. That is, the top soil, or overburden, will be removed by bulldozers and other equipment and the lignite deposit exposed. It then is scooped out by a dragline and loaded on large trucks or carriers.

It will be similar to the strip mining being done at Sandow to supply Alcoa's generating plant, but Shell's operation probably will not be on as elaborate a scale.

Although strip mining has been criticized by environmentalists, Tom Shores explained that Shell has plans to replace all of the soil that is removed and as nearly as possible restore the tract of land to its original condition before the mining operation began. Such things as houses, barns, or other buildings will be rebuilt. Large trees admittedly cannot be replaced, but if such things as a pecan orchard is destroyed, the landowner will be compensated for it. And every effort will be made to cause as little damage to the land as possible.

Lignite has been an important part of Milam County's economy since the late 1890's when several mines were developed around Rockdale, and Shell's new leasing campaign undoubtedly will make the so-called "Brown coal" play an even more important part in the county's economy in the future.

Shell Oil Company is not a newcomer to Milam County. Back in the mid-1960s it put together a large lease block in east Milam south of Gause and drilled three deep wildcats in an unsuccessful attempt to hit the productive but elusive Smackover formation.

Variety Seedling Wins Tops In Pecan Show

By Bill McCutchen

Mrs. John Sapp of Cameron walked off with the most coveted award Saturday when she won the "Champion In-Shell Pecan" honors with a variety seedling. This was an astounding feat for a variety with no name as it was competing against varieties that have long lists of credentials such as the Choctaw, Desirable, and Success.

Dr. J. Benton Storey, head of the horticulture department at A&M and judge of the show, was impressed enough with the variety to ask Mrs. Sapp for permission to test the variety at the A&M pecan station. If the variety proves out it may one day become a named variety.

The champion shelling pecan was exhibited by Henry Schattler Jr. of Cameron and was of the Sioux variety.

Mrs. Jerry Kostroun, Sr. of Cameron had the champion native pecan of the show.

Reserve champion in-shell was won by Terry Hardwick of Cameron with a Choctaw entry.

Reserve champion shelling pecan was won by J. L. Mondrick, Sr. of Cameron with a Mehan seedling. Judge Storey also commented on this unnamed pecan and said it might prove to be a valuable pecan but should be looked at for a few years.

Reserve champion native pecan was won by Mrs. Walter Holliman of Rockdale.

A big addition to the 1974 show was the native and improved pecan crackers furnished to the show free of charge by the Winkler Pecan Farms of Bell County. This is the second time Winkler's have loaned their crackers to the Milam County Show.

Placings in the various categories were August Kunz--1st place Burkett; Terry Hardwick--1st place Choctaw; Gilbert Frenzel--2nd place Choctaw, and Mrs. Beatrice Foster--3rd place Choctaw.

Eugene Schattler had a first place Delmas, and Rudy Krall had a second place Delmas.

Doing Well, Doing Good...

Now that West Cameron is getting the developmental attention it needs, including recreation strengthening a citywide program, what may Cameron next anticipate?

With an additional baseball diamond at the new Little League Park, Noon Lions Club efforts to build two tennis courts somewhere in town and Cameron Country Club proposing tennis courts amidst a building program, it all begins to take shape.

Two tennis courts, two baseball diamonds, and two basketball courts in the West Cameron park program opposite O. J. Thomas School will round off efforts to bring this vital area of life into modern perspective. And there is the effort to revitalize Wilson-Ledbetter Park and keep Cameron City Park a center for recreation.

We would have tennis courts marked off on side streets so people would have plenty of places to play, which is kidding, of course, but individual sports are now getting equal time in Cameron.

After this, which seems like a lot until we get these facilities and wondered how we did without them, there will be need to survey other areas of the community perhaps not in the city limits but which are zoned and which may one day come in.

What might those areas need then?

The City is inaugurating surveys for a street program in Northeast Cameron and water drainage studies in North Cameron. These will require money when the building stage is approximated.

Our guess is builders will be quite interested in all that space 375 old houses once occupied in various parts of Cameron. And that will be opening of development otherwise all but impossible on an area basis within the city limits.

Cameron is doing well while doing good.

Elemental, Raw Power...

Henry Kissinger provides some insights into realities of foreign relations that a basically Christian world is compelled to evaluate.

Sounding more and more like a man about to step aside at the proper distillation of international affairs, the Secretary of State said to those at a Foreign Service Association meeting:

"The idea that we could reform all the governments of the world has been disproved," he said, by events "including our domestic experience."

Himself criticized for solo diplomatic virtuosity, Kissinger looked at some of those critics saying further: "It is imperative to report not only what people say, but what they mean, and to do so on a basis of hard-headed, cold-blooded evaluation of what the situation requires."

"And we are not doing nearly as well as we can," he added.

Kissinger has been criticized by career foreign service officers, appointed diplomats, and others for his unprecedented personal style of diplomacy during detente-making and war-breaking sallies into the Middle East and the Moscow-Peking impasse.

But it worked, because he carried with him the power of the White House, whose surrogate he was and is when his diplomacy unfolds.

He noted the inability of the U. S., by war, trade, negotiation and peace, to alter the internal affairs of other viable societies and other countries efforts, now substantially ended in Vietnam. That one nearly broke our spirit, if not Fort Knox.

Who should know better that charity with the wrong label may be thrown back in our faces? And the Moslem and Communist worlds, to name two, compel men like Kissinger to deal in the elements of raw power.

Atty. Gen. Hill Emerges As Top Votegetter

Atty. Gen. John Hill, viewed as a likely gubernatorial candidate in 1978, emerged from the November 5 general election as the top statewide Democratic votegetter.

While all the statewide incumbent Democrats won landslide victories over Republicans and minor party candidates, Gov. Dolph Briscoe ran last on the ticket.

But last was good for 62 per cent of the total vote cast in the governor's race (nearly a million) and an apparent sweep of all but five counties by the governor.

Hill was followed closely by Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong in the vote-getting statistics.

While the attorney general received more than 74 per cent of the votes over two opponents, Armstrong was less than a percentage point behind.

All but two of the statewide Democratic contenders topped well over one million votes, and most had more than 70 per cent of their contest totals.

Treasurer Jesse James ran down the list and just ahead of Briscoe, but he still managed to finish with 64.7 per cent in his race.

The turnout of just over 1.6 million was, percentage-wise, perhaps the worst in recent Texas history—about 31 per cent.

While there were only 1.4 million votes in the 1966 general election and 1.5 million in 1962, there were far fewer than the present 5.4 million registered voters then.

GOP HOPEFUL — Republicans, in spite of the drubbing they took in statewide elections, already are talking hopefully about rebuilding for the future.

GOP Chairman Jack Warren of Tyler said the state party will be zeroing in on 1976 legislative races and looking for a strong U.S. Senate candidate to challenge for Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's seat. GOP's from Texas will also want to have a say in the next big presidential effort, Warren emphasized.

There were bright spots in the darkness for the Republicans this year, Warren noted. He pointed to victories of Jon Lindsay for Harris County judge, John Whittington's upset of longtime Dallas County Judge Lew Sterrett and Nathan White's victory for the Collin County judgeship. The party had a net loss of one congressional seat (U.S. Rep. Bob Price in Panhandle-North Texas district 13) and two state House of Representatives places in the November 5 general election.

ONE PRIMARY LESS — Raza Unida Party, which held its first primary this year, won't be conducting any more in the near future.

Under new election law, parties which receive two to 20 per cent of the vote for governor must nominate in conventions. Raza Unida falls in this bracket, with about a six per cent showing November 5.

Only Democrats and Republicans will nominate in primaries next time out, since both received more than 20 per cent of the gubernatorial vote.

The American Party and Socialist Workers Party, if they get on the next ballot, will have to submit about 16,000 signatures on petitions. They needed 34,000 signers to qualify this year.

COURTS SPEAK — The Court of Criminal Appeals refused to reconsider its September 24 decision upholding convictions of former House Speaker Gus Mutscher and two aides for conspiracy to take a bribe.

The high court reversed and directed new trial for a Houston woman convicted of slaying her husband.

In another husband-killing case, the same court affirmed the 20-year sentence given a Dallas housewife.

The State Supreme Court ruled in favor of the state in a tax case involving liquor served by a Taylor County country club.

AG OPINIONS—Atty. Gen. John Hill held material supporting the agenda of the University of Texas Board of Regents meeting is public information insofar as it reflects factual matters.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

- A grand jury has no authority to employ aides to investigate crimes.

- A bail bond board may consider felony convictions of applicants for a bail bond license in passing on their eligibility.

- A city mail carrier is eligible to run for city council.

- A traffic safety film produced by Texas Education Agency can be reproduced and distributed by a private concern for profit.

CONFERENCE SET—A national conference on economic problems and energy consumption forecasts is set here November 14-15.

Economists and mathematicians from over the nation will meet to discuss mathematical techniques used in economic analyses, supply and demand forecasting, governmental program planning and constraints on development.

Dear editor:

Not that it really concerns me, I've got no mass transit problems out here on this Johnson grass farm, unless some hot shot real estate developer comes along and wants to subdivide it, but as I understand it mass transit is one of the biggest problems big cities have, next to paying their bills.

The trouble is cities were built on a per-person basis and not a per-car basis, and when everybody wants to bring his car downtown you can see it's like trying to put horses in a coop built for chickens.

The next problem is that people have spread out around the city, building homes -- while still close together -- further and further out, in what the experts call urban sprawl. As a result all these people choke the streets with their cars as they try to get to work every morning.

So the experts are racking their brains to figure out a mass transit system that'll haul people to and from work to save congestion, gasoline and gasoline fumes, without mortgaging city hall to do it, but they're finding it's like trying to halt an avalanche after it's already half-way down the mountain.

What they're overlooking is that cities are built wrong. To haul people to work in one of them now you'd have to have a mass transit system built like a giant spider web, the center downtown and the web strands extending out in all directions for miles and miles.

Cities ought to be re-built. Instead of urban sprawl they ought to have urban elongation. What you need is a city ten blocks wide and a hundred miles long. One set of railroad tracks would run down the middle. Put up a school every ten miles. End forever the quarrel over busing. You haven't heard of anybody being for or against riding a train to school, have you? Also, put up all office buildings, factories, stores, shopping centers, x-rated movie houses, etc. on either side of the elongated city, and everybody rides to work, if he can walk the five blocks from his home to the railroad tracks.

If a city ten blocks wide and 100 miles long won't accommodate all its people, move over a few feet and build another one parallel to it.

If you run into the problem of New York running into Baltimore or Waco running into Cameron, that's another problem but it won't be any worse than inflation or the Mid-East.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

NATURAL GAS For Years To Come

With all the talk about conservation, many might believe that we have only enough natural gas for a few tomorrows. We'd like to assure our residential and other high priority customers that Lone Star has an adequate supply. Not only for the present, but for years to come.

We were actively engaged in exploration programs long before the energy crisis. And since the crisis, we're exploring even harder to insure your continued supply of natural gas.

Conservation is one way to extend the supplies we now have on hand. And they can last much longer by avoiding wasteful uses of energy. By making it last longer, more time is allowed for new forms of energy to be developed.

Of course new supplies are going to cost more. But natural gas is still the best buy for your energy dollar!

Conserve natural gas. Conservation will help keep the cost as low as possible.

Spicy Cranberry Coat Dresses Pork Roast For Autumn Dinner

For an outstanding autumn dinner, choose a modern and meaty pork loin roast and accent its fine flavor with a zesty cranberry barbecue baste.

To bring your roast to the table at its tender, juicy best, guard against overcooking which shrinks servings and dries the meat, advises Reba Staggs of the National Live Stock & Meat Board. She recommends the use of a roast meat thermometer to accurately determine doneness and points out that pork is well done when the thermometer, centered in the thickest part of the roast, reaches 170°F.

Berry Barbecued Pork Roast
4 to 6-pound pork loin roast
1 pound fresh cranberries

1 cup sugar
½ cup barbecue sauce
½ cup orange juice

Place roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb is centered in the thickest part. Make certain bulb does not rest on fat or on bone. Do not add water; do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325°F.) until the thermometer registers 170°F. Allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound for roasting a center loin; 35 to 40 minutes per pound for a half loin. Combine cranberries, sugar, barbecue sauce and orange juice in a saucepan. Bring to boil, stirring to dissolve sugar. Boil rapidly 5 minutes, without stirring. Baste roast with cranberry barbecue sauce during last 20 minutes of cooking time; serve remaining sauce with the roast.

Happy Students

Happiness can begin with a good breakfast. For a student's energy, alertness and ability to do homework is adversely affected when the day begins without a morning meal. Variety adds appeal. In addition to the traditional bacon and sausage, serve pan-broiled slices of Canadian-style bacon as a "sandwich" with baked and split refriger ator biscuits as the bread. Again, pan-fry slices of bologna or salami and top with scrambled eggs, or broil kabobs made with ham leftover from the main meal.

Chitterling Chatter

Chitterlings, a favorite food of the "Old South," may gain new status in other areas of the country as a result of a recent U.S.D.A. regulation which permits their entry in interstate commerce for sale

in retail food stores. According to the regulation, chitterlings must be prepared from the large intestines of hogs or calves, and must meet strict wholesomeness and safety standards. They are not permitted in already-established commercial meat products, but may be used for chitterling pie or similar products if clearly labeled and sold in containers of not more than three pounds.

Nutritious Pork
Pork supplies more thiamin, a vitamin essential for healthy nerves, than any other food. Thiamin is also needed for sound muscles and good digestion. Pork also is a good source of protein, other B vitamins, iron, phosphorus, potassium and magnesium, all required nutrients for good health.

Beef Cattle Marketing Meeting Set

By John E. Snell

All Milam County beef cattle producers are invited to attend a beef cattle marketing meeting to hear a discussion on the current cattle marketing situation. The meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Yoe High School Vocational Agriculture Department in Cameron.

What's happening? What are the factors which caused this situation? What is the future trend and outlook for the cattle business?

Dr. Edward Uvacek, nationally known marketing specialist, from Texas A&M University will discuss the above topics and answer questions that beef producers may have concerning the marketing situation.

Don Parks, Area Extension Economist, will discuss economic factors to consider in managing beef herds. This meeting should be of interest to all beef producers. Make plans to attend now.

Brucellosis, Again... New Regulation Proposed... Remember Beef Clubs? ... Feed Grains Dwindle

HARRISON, HASKELL, Hill and Hunt Counties have joined Grayson and Leon Counties on the list facing additional brucellosis testing before shipping beef and dairy breeding cattle, according to the USDA. Grayson and Leon had previously been on the list. However, Jefferson and Navarro Counties have been restored to the modified-certified status. Brucellosis regulations are administered by the Federal and State governments. The regulations require that cattle in counties not modified-certified be tested and found free of brucellosis within the preceding 30 days before they are shipped; and the herd from which such cattle came must also have been tested and found free of disease within the past year. Texas Animal Health Commission is the cooperating Texas agency in the brucellosis program.

ANOTHER PROPOSAL that may, if adopted, affect Texans has been made by the USDA. It would require custom slaughterers and processors of meat and poultry to register with the USDA. Those are the slaughterers and processors who slaughter and process meat and poultry brought to them and which is for use solely by the person who brings them in and by his family. Custom operations are not required to have full-time inspection but are subject to federal sanitation and labeling requirements. The new proposal would require registration of each owner of a custom operation and each establishment he owns. Those who want to comment on the proposal should send duplicate copies to the Hearing Clerk, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250 before May 2, 1975. Copies of the proposal may be obtained by writing APHIS, Room 1166-S, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250.

OLDTIMERS can recall that beef clubs used to be common in rural communities. Several families would form the club and would take turns each month in butchering a calf or other animal. The meat would then be divided among the family members. The Texas Department of Agriculture used to be active in helping organize beef clubs, or Baby Beef Clubs. This was in the early days of TDA. (It came into existence in 1907.) And Baby Beef Clubs fitted in with the Farmers' Institutes program which used to be a responsibility of TDA. However, that was in the days before refrigerators and deep freezers, when it was difficult to save meat more than a few days in the summer time. There would be a greater food shortage today if it were not for refrigerators and deep freezers, and, probably, there would be less cattle stealing today if there were no deep freezers.

TEXAS CROP and Livestock Reporting Service has come up with some interesting figures on four feed grain stocks that are of the most value to Texas: corn, oats, barley and sorghum. The Service states that grain sorghum stocks are down to 20 million bushels, 19 per cent below a year ago. A decrease of six million bushels was noted in off-farm stocks but farm-held stocks were almost more than twice what they were a year ago. Wheat stocks in all positions are estimated at 60 million bushels, which is 31 per cent below a year ago. There are an estimated 10,200,000 bushels of corn, and that is more than three times last year's reserves. Farm-held corn is slightly less than a year ago, but off-farm stocks accounted for the increase. There were an estimated 10.7 million bushels of oats, compared to 22.5 million last year; and barley stocks are estimated at 477 thousand bushels, compared to 1,693,000 bushels a year ago. In the nation, stocks of sorghum, corn, oats, and barley are estimated at 33.7 million tons, 25 per cent less than a year ago.

Ag Materials In Short Supply

Shortages of vital materials and equipment, and higher production costs, will continue to hinder agricultural producers throughout 1975, several of the nation's agribusiness leaders predicted here recently.

The supply situation is expected to turn around somewhat by 1976, leading authorities from agribusiness and government who were featured at the first Houston Agribusiness Seminar, added. Attending were consumers, producers, and industry officials.

More farm equipment, along with some additional supplies of farm chemicals and fertilizers, are in prospect by 1976 as plants hasten expansion to meet current needs, leaders said.

In the meantime, however, the agricultural scarcities and increasing production costs are factors that both consumers and producers will have to meet, they added.

Dr. Richard L. Feltner, Assistant Secretary for Marketing and Consumer Affairs, U. S. Department of Agriculture, emphasized the conference theme of "Agriculture: Feast or Famine" in the opening address.

While livestock producers are in one of the worst economic binds in the industry's history, due to such reasons as high feed and operating costs and a rapid buildup in cow numbers, Feltner pointed out that grain producers are in a favorable position. "We have already seen an adjustment to part of the beef dilemma--a larger volume with little or no grain-fattening is coming to market," he added.

Speaking for the farm equipment industry, T. R. Thomas of Deere & Company at Moline, Illinois, said "expansion of production takes time, and double-digit inflation and material shortages are slowing building programs." He predicted many farm equipment changes in the future, but emphasized that reliability, or "no down-time in the field," is the major goal.

Regarding farm chemicals, Parke Brinkley, president, National Agricultural Chemical Association, Washington, D. C. said that the pesticide industry is under stress during this period of shortages. "From five to eight years of research and testing, along with a budget as high as $10 million, is often required before a new formulation is approved for use. And additional funds are then needed to keep approved products on the market," Brinkley emphasized.

Gordon Van Vleck, president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, pointed out that "meat is about the only product priced lower this year than last. Over the long haul, this will lead to shortages as some producers are forced out of business. Since 40 percent of the U. S. land is suited only for grazing purposes, this will mean little opportunity for adjusting to other production."

He suggested that industry and government need to make more aggressive efforts to export beef, and to "beef up" a meat merchandising program at home. Luncheon keynoters were Senator Lloyd Bentsen of Texas and Congressman Jerry Litton of Missouri. Bentsen said the money crunch and economic squeeze is being felt in all segments of the economy, and suggested that an accelerated agricultural research and development program is needed to cure many current ills.

Hog receipts totaled 568 with barrows and gilts 1.00 lower and sows 50 lower. US 1-2 brought 37.60 to 37.90. Sows 1-3 brought 29.50 to 33.90.

Short Course Farmers Opens At Buckholts Can Save On Taxes

A Farm Electrification short course on electric motors for adult farmers will be held Nov. 19, 20 and 21 under the sponsorship of the Buckholts High School vocational agriculture department, according to Leon Brady, Supt., and O. T. Johnson, vo-ag teacher.

Bob Jaska, farm electrification specialist with the Texas Education Agency, will be instructor for the course. He is headquartered at Texas A&M University.

The short course will begin Nov. 19 at 7 p.m. During the dates the short course is in progress, Jaska will be available to assist farmers with individual problems and to provide on the farm instruction, Johnson said.

Farmers interested in attending the short course should write or call Supt. Brady at the school or Johnson. An entry fee of $5 will be charged.

When making decisions relating to any farm business, always consider the tax consequences of your decision, says Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Now is a good time to estimate your expected income for 1974," says the economist with the Texas A&M University System. "To do this, obtain information from your 1974 records, make estimates of your income and expenses for the rest of the year, and compare this year's estimated income with last year's income."

Hayenga says there are several things an individual can do to reduce the potential tax for 1974.

"By purchasing some capital items such as machinery, equipment and breeding stock before the end of the year, you can get more investment credit and additional first-year depreciation," says the economist. "Other capital items purchased during the year can be put on a faster rate of depreciation."

"You may also want to purchase such items as feed and fertilizer for the coming year."

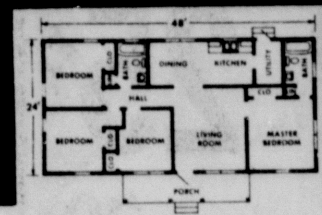

Another way to reduce potential tax is to delay sales of some farm items such as grain, cotton, and livestock until after the first of the year.

"Unless your taxable income appears to be lower than usual this year, you should pay any large bills before January 1 and make needed repairs to machinery, buildings, and fences before the end of the year," suggests Hayenga.

He also advises taking advantage of the "net operating loss" provision of the tax law if it seems there will be a loss in your year's business.

the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

What's odorless, tasteless, and colorless and can kill you before you know you're being poisoned?

The lethal answer to this State Health Department riddle is carbon monoxide, a product of all combustible substances - from gas used in your kitchen gas range to the gasoline in your automobile or gasoline-powered lawnmower.

Carbon monoxide poisoning is preventable, but a lot of people are unaware of its danger.

It is a threat year-round, but the most hazardous time is during the cold months of the year when homes and businesses are closed up tightly against the weather.

But, even summer air conditioning can add to the threat, say State Health Department engineers from the Occupational Health and Radiation Control Division.

In some air conditioned warehouses where forklifts are used to move heavy material, carbon monoxide has been found at serious levels. This same problem has been found in garages, where automobile motors are often left running for tests. Enclosed parking garages and drive-in banks also have proved to be source of trouble.

"You can't depend on leaks around doors or windows to bring in fresh air," says a Health Department engineer.

"In places with a source of carbon monoxide, you've got to bring in fresh air constantly to keep up a positive pressure so stale air will be pushed out through ventilators."

The autumn chill in the air has brought heating units and gas stoves into play. Hopefully, each home owner had his heating system checked before turning it on for keeps.

This might've prevented a tragedy occurring at Killeen, where a family of four went to bed one night and three were dead the next morning. A little girl survived. An inspection later showed a faulty burner and faulty duct work in the home. With Texas in the midst of its fall and winter hunting season, hunters should check ventilation in their stoves and should examine smokestacks and chimneys to be certain they aren't clogged.

Of particular concern are the use of catalytic heaters and other unvented heaters in tents and campers.

In the home, make sure the damper is open before lighting the fireplace. Have your gas refrigerator service - checked annually even though newer models have improved control systems. All furnaces, regardless of fuel type, should be checked and properly vented to the outside. Combustion - chamber leakage is a serious hazard, particularly if the heating unit is old. All individual room-type gas heating equipment should be vented. And, say safety experts, don't use your gas cooking range for heating.

Automobiles and trucks, as well as other gasoline engines, shouldn't be run indoors for long periods - even with the garage door open. A charcoal grill or hibachi should be used only outdoors.

While carbon monoxide poisoning is sneaky, there are recognizable symptoms - if you are alert.

Early symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning include yawning, headache, nausea, dizziness, ringing in the ears, and abdominal pain. Difficult breathing and unconsciousness quickly follow. The victim should get fresh air immediately and should be kept lying down and warm. A physician should be called promptly, and inhalations of oxygen or an oxygen-carbon dioxide mixture should be administered.

Fousts Share Orchid Lore With Club

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Foust of Caldwell shared the adventure of finding and growing orchids as guest speakers for the Fleur de Lis Garden Club November meeting.

The club met Monday at the home of Mrs. Ed Cauley with Mrs. Rod Holcombe and Mrs. Derwood Cobb serving as co-hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Foust have more than 600 orchid plants in their greenhouse north of Caldwell. Though they have perfected the exacting and time consuming process of propagating new plants, they still list orchid growing as a hobby. Specimens in their green house include many found on trips with other orchid growers to Central and South America.

Humidity, mild temperatures and sunlight were listed as essentials for growing orchids. Mr. Foust said their plants are grown in redwood bark with fertilizer added to the water. Although it takes seven years for a plant to bear its first bloom he said the flower will last about two months in cool weather.

Mrs. Ed Magre presided at the business meeting and appointed a nominating committee of Mrs. Roy Boutwell, Mrs. John Homerstad and Mrs. Edward Macal.

The Club voted to sponsor a youth organization float for the Cameron Christmas parade.

Following the meeting pie, coffee and spiced tea were served to members and three guests: Mrs. Buddy Dulin, Mrs. Harold Roberts and Portia Kruse.

Retired Teachers

The Milam County Retired Teachers Association met Nov. 6 in regular session at the Community Center with 32 members present.

Mrs. Roberta Bowling, president, opened the meeting explaining dues and those who may be eligible to get better rates on auto insurance and nursing home care.

Denson Crouch is a 16 year old Junior who has helped the Yoemen for the past three years. Denson is known as D. A. to the team and has put in many hours of time filling the important duties of the team manager. Averaging over 25 hours a week the managers keep the players in key shape for game preparation. D. A. participated in Junior High football and managed all other sports.

The Cougars of Rosebud-Lott will contest the Yoemen after putting together a 3-3 district record thus far this season. They have 3 offensive and 5 defensive veterans from their 7-3 effort last year. The offensive interior line weighs in at over 163 with the back field in at just over 151 pounds. Standouts in the season include their QB, Kirk Ryan and split-end, Ronnie Hoelscher. The Cougars like the power running game but with the passing of Ryan they will throw the ball.

Other fine players of the Cougar outfit include LB Terry Tomlinson, #31, who weighs in at 190 pounds and is credited with fine defensive play throughout the season. Larry Johnson, #44, is the left half back and has picked up fine yardage and is also noted for his fine blocking ability.

Under the direction of first year coach Bill Owens, the Cougars were defeated last week by Caldwell in a big district battle, 33-0. Their basic offense is near the same as the Yoe offense. On defense the team uses the 5-4.

Much is on the line for both clubs in the Friday night battle at Yoe Field. The Cougars have an opportunity to end their season at the 5-5 mark.

Take an Alcoa's word

progress comes from profits

... ask anyone who makes a product or sells a service. They know they must be profitable to stay in business ... pay for raw materials ... provide new machinery and equipment ... pay taxes ... expand and offer more employment ... help schools, and charities, and libraries ... and make jobs more secure.

A company, big or small, must generate the revenues it needs to stay in business.

Consider Alcoa's investment in each job, each employee — $58,160. And add all the costs of doing business — materials, energy, salaries, taxes — and the bill is a whopper.

When these costs keep rising, revenues and profits have to rise to keep the business going — to assure continued strength and growth.

People working together with good equipment make profits possible. Skilled, dedicated people like Bea Korenek, construction purchasing clerk at Rockdale Works, can tell you a successful business means making every job really count. And success makes a better job — a better life — progress for all of us. That progress comes from profits.

J.V., FROSH COMBINE FOR 27-0 VICTORY

The Yoe High Junior Varsity and Freshman teams combined forces last Thursday night and defeated the Manor Mustangs 27-0. The Freshmen were moved to the squad due to the Mustangs losing players and not having the numbers to maintain the Freshman team.

In the opening quarter the Junior Varsity Yoemen were able to stop the Mustangs in their bid to gain offensive yardage. The Yoe offense was able to gain 70 yards rushing in the opening quarter with Sam Green carrying the ball 8 times for 49 yards.

The first quarter ended with the Junior Varsity of Yoe High in command 7-0. Outstanding defensive players of the 1st quarter were Mike Barr, Clay Cruz, and James Pair. Pair was credited with an interception.

Early in the second quarter, Sam Green found his way across the goal line on a 3rd down and 3 from the 4 yard line. The PAT for two was successful when Komar connected with Dennis Butler.

Donal Komar was starting QB and directed the squad with precision and decisiveness as they took a 14-0 half time lead. The Manor attempt to pass the ball was of no help as Mike Barr, James Pair, and Dennis Butler were there to spoil most of the passing attempts.

Mid-way through the third quarter Robert Miller, #42, went off left tackle and 33 yards to make the third Yoe touchdown. The point after attempt was on the mark as Ysidoro Tamez provided the power. At the 21-0 mark, coach Forsythe called on the Freshman group to take control. Fine defensive action by Lindeman, Martinez, and Cruz stunned the Manor offense and kept them deep in their own territory.

In the final quarter the Yoemen were able to hold the Mustangs to two first downs. The final Yoe touchdown came with 7:40 showing on the clock. Komar pitched out to Kornegay who in turn passed to Robert Miller for 20 yards. Tamez on the PAT failed as the ball went wide to the left.

The Junior Varsity and Freshmen will again combine forces to play Rosebud-Lott there with the game time scheduled at 7:30. This will be the final football contest for the teams and Coach Forsythe hopes for a large crowd of Yoe fans to travel to the game Thursday night.

The Strength You Need

When the going's been rough ...
When a loved one is ill and you must carry on ...
When your problems seem more than you can handle ...
When your soul cries out for strength and comfort ...
Take the arm that reaches out to you.
Lean on Him for the strength you need.
Come to church.
